How Bazaar!

Cambridge Recreation Centres Offer Sales in Time for the Holidays

Cambridge, Ontario. October 25, 2011... The count down to the holidays has already begun and once again, The City of Cambridge team is gearing up to offer bazaar opportunities at two community centres.

Mark your calendars so you can attend both events:

David Durward Centre, 62 Dickson Street, will host their annual bazaar on Saturday November 19th between 9:00am-1:00pm. Volunteers have been working tirelessly to create one of a kind items for this sale. A light lunch will also be offered, along with a chance to meet jolly old Saint Nicholas.

Allan Reuter Centre, 507 King Street East, will hold their sale on Saturday November 12th between 9:00am - 1:00pm. The centre will also offer a light lunch in the tea room along with a visit from Santa Claus and his elf. Sounds like a family photo opportunity in the making!

While each event is unique in its offerings, items for sale include: local woodworking masterpieces, crafts and related materials, baked goods, jams and relishes, knitted and crocheted items, antique and designer jewelry, Christmas décor, books, mystery parcels and much more.

All proceeds from each sale go back to the recreation centre to support programs and special activities.

Did you know that the word 'bazaar' is believed to originate in Peru and symbolizes marketplace or the place of prices? In North America, it has come to stand for a rummage sale.
