

Is it Something in the Water?

2008's most relevant Canadian Fantasy Baseball Players

There was a time - in fact, not all that long ago, when Larry Walker, and Matt Stairs were the only two swinging sticks who represented the land of Lord Stanley , Maple Syrup, Rush, and Curling.

My - How things have changed!

No longer are pitchers hailing from the Great White North reduced to Rheal Cormier and a bunch of potentials. Canadians have become not only prevalent throughout major league baseball; there are a few who have risen to become stats leaders in recent years.

So, for all you who prefer Poutine to French Fries, or Bryan Adams to Bruce Springsteen we've listed what we feel are the most notable 2008 Fantasy Players who hail from Canada .

NOTE: We've excluded Waiver Sharks favourite Royal - Mark Teahen .(We made sure we added the 'u' in favourite, because that's the way most Canucks prefer to spell words like 'colour', according to the Mountie, the beaver, and the Killer Polar Bears we interviewed!) Teahen - has dual citizenship, but he was born in California .

Scott Thorman – (ATL) Cambridge , Ontario

Thorman is a power hitting lefty who currently is playing with the Atlanta Braves Triple-A Richmond club. He played 1st base with rather disheartening results in 2007 for the Braves. With the acquisition of Mark Teixeira he is not likely to see much playing time in 2008.

<http://waiversharks.com/ramble-and-gamble/2008/05/07/is-it-something-in-the-water/>

Source: WaiverSharks.com is a 100% FREE Fantasy Sports website that was created to assist both casual, as well as die-hard Fantasy Sports enthusiasts and it tends to focus more of our energies and resources on the star players of tomorrow.