New park project good for children

Published on Jul 03, 2008

The picture and brief article in the June 19 Cambridge Times about six-year-old Hope Crocker, who has cerebral palsy, and the opening of the playground at Churchill Park designed to accommodate children with disabilities, was most interesting.

What a worthwhile project carried out by the City of Cambridge!

However, I was appalled to read of Hope being referred to in the article by her surname.

This is appropriate when writing of criminals, etc., but certainly not for a lovely six-year-old girl.
