

Bus service strike averted in Cambridge

Published on Feb 22, 2009

CAMBRIDGE — A tentative agreement was reached late Saturday night, Feb. 21, between the Region of Waterloo and Canadian Auto Workers (CAW) Union Local 4304, meaning all Grand River Transit services will continue as scheduled.

Ratification dates have yet to be set.

A Grand River Transit bus leaves the Kitchener bus terminal for Cambridge.